Clearing the Plains

Disease, Politics of Starvation, and the Loss of Indigenous Life

by James Daschuk

foreword by Elizabeth A. Fenn, prologue by Niigaanwewidam James Sinclair

In arresting but harrowing prose, James Daschuk examines the roles that Old World diseases, climate, and, most disturbingly, Canadian politics—the politics of ethnocide—played in the deaths and subjugation of thousands of Indigenous people in the realization of Sir John A. Macdonald's "National Dream."

CALLS FOR SUBMISSIONS (2023)

The University of Regina Press welcomes submissions in Indigenous Studies from established and emerging scholars. We are particularly interested in submissions that engage with aspects on Indigenous languages, Indigenous ways of knowing, environment, gender and sexuality studies, health studies, education, cultural studies, and social justice. We also welcome memoirs and non-fiction narratives from emerging and established Indigenous authors.

Please review our Submission Guidelines

WE ARE ACTIVELY SEEKING SUBMISSIONS FOR THE FOLLOWING INDIGENOUS SERIES:

First Nation Language Readers Series Editor: Arok Wolvengrey

With a mix of traditional and contemporary stories, First Nations Language Readers are suitable for all readers. Our goal is to publish in each of the 60+ Indigenous languages in Canada.

Our Own Words Series Editor: Arok Wolvengrey

Our Own Words is a new Indigenous language series that presents longer, more extensive Indigenous texts for intermediate and advanced learners of the language.

Indigenous Voices in World Arts and Cultural Expressions Series Editors: Carmen Robertson and Sheila Petty

This new series showcases practices and critical discourses of diverse traditions of Indigenous makers that demonstrate the intersections between Indigenous languages and Indigenous ways of knowing.

ABOUT THE PRESS

University of Regina Press is located on Treaty 4 Territory, the traditional lands of the nêhiyawak (Cree), Anihşinapêk (Saulteaux), Dakota, Lakota, and Nakoda Nations, and the homeland of the Métis/Michif peoples.

University of Regina Press (URP) publishes a mix of trade and academic books for audiences in and beyond the academy in Canada and around the world. In our ten years as a press, we've published nine national bestsellers and countless award-winning books. We strive to develop our writers into public intellectuals, encourage debate, publish rigorous scholarship, and inspire young people to study the humanities by producing titles that help inform the most central issues of our time. As an academic press, URP strives to publish the best in Indigenous studies, Indigenous language resources, environmental studies, Canadian history, politics, gender studies, and much more.
